JULIA DONALDSON is the author of over 150 books for children and besides writing well-known books with Axel Scheffler including The Gruffalo, The Snail and the Whale and most recently Zog, she has collaborated with many other illustrators. Julia is also the Patron of Artlink Central, a charity which puts artists, musicians and storytellers into schools, hospitals, prisons and community spaces to work with children and adults and help them develop their talent and creativity.

The Park Gallery is delighted to work with Artlink Central and invite Julia Donaldson to curate The Illustrators, an exhibition of work by artists who have illustrated Julia’s books

Pam Smy: Illustrator

Callendar House
Tuesday 19 April 2011 10:15am
How does an illustrator work with a text to produce a picture book for children?
Award winning illustrator Pam Smy explores how Julia Donaldson's book 'Follow the Swallow' was developed from initial plans and sketches through to finished artwork. Pam Smy will bring along original plans, character studies, drawings, roughs and paintings to illustrate this friendly and informal talk about how a picture book comes into being.
£4.50 (including tea/coffee & cake)
